PARIS, April 23.—The Berlin overnment is the prisoner of an industrial oligarchy, similar to the old military oligarchy, which seeks to force Germany into bankruptcy in an attempt to escape payments of reparations, meanwhile using the money due the allies to perfect a great industrial machine, Premier Poincare declared today in an au thoritative statement given the United Press.

Poincare stated that reports of three cabinet ministers who have just returned show the situation in the Ruhr is getting better and better. He charged that Berlin is directing the armed resistance, exending even to the of French soldiers.

Government Powerless
"The population of the Ruhr valley doesn't intend to sacrifice itself to cause the great industrial leaders, who since Versailles have done every thing to avoid reparations, to build their own prosp at the expense of execution of the treaty," he said.

"Sometimes powerless, but more often as an accomplice, which, like that of the old time militarists, runs the empire.

"No measures are taken to pre vent exportation of capital. In-sufficient taxes are inefficiently collected and the fall of the mark is augmented from week to week.
"But at the same time, while they are thus preparing openly and voluntarily for bankruptcy, the money owed the allies is being employed to perfect an industrial tion in preparation for economical struggle for the future.

"During this time how did France, who more than others was ravaged by the German invasion, solve the problem of her devastated regions? How has she provided homes for her unhappy peoples? Simply by substituting herself for her defaulting debtor.

it France was crushed with taxes and involved in debts. She was forced to spend, in place of the responsible author of the damninety-eight billion francs. Now you know why we are in the Ruhr.

"Encouraged by the forbearance of the allies, the Germans flattered themselves the allies would sicken and finally abandon the project. It was necessary to put an end to this scandalous scheme.

Peace in Balance
"It is not sufficient to solve the reparations question quickly and definitely, but it must be an equitable solution. World peace de-pends on it. The world would have looked ou, stupefied, if in the have looked on, stupefied, if in the face of ruined France the mag-nates of German industry had succeeded in freeing Germany from her debts. It would have been a most immoral victory. understood this better than our friends in America—the soldiers of right in the great war.

"In the Ruhr we observe a sort of relaxation. The population is becoming accustomed to the present state of things. The infrequent incidents are the work of a small minority. The striking minority. The revelations in the Reichstag on March 31 by Froelich show too clearly how these incidents which loodshed are prepared in

Leon Rice, the noted tenor, will give a concert tonight at the First Methodist church, beginning at 8 o'clock. A capacity house greeted the singer last evening, and it is expected that tonight, the crowd will exceed even that of last evening. Rice is regarded as one of America's greatest concert singers. He has sung with great success in virtually every city in the l'nited States and Canada, and the press has accorded him the most extravagant praise. extravagant praise

For several years Rice was colosist with Trinity church, New York City, the wealthiest church in the world, and has the distinction of having received the largest salary of any church singer.

In connection with his concert here this evening he will show a pre-view of the picture "Wasted Lives." This picture is made by the company of which Rice is president, and the picture has met with a marked degree of success in some of the eastern cities. This feature of the evening's program will undoubtedly be unusually attractive. Also Rice will again sing "The Ninety and Nine" illustrated with a synchronized screen version of the well known parable. Doors will be opened at 7:30 c'clock. No admission will be charged.

Miss Burns was further honored by the entertainment of the afternoon, a merry contest played progressively, which its originators called "Sweet Gladys." In this Mrs. Herbert Wagner proved her skill and in carrying off honors, won a gay Japanese parasol while to Mrs. Tarver Montgomery was given a dainty parasol "housewife" in dresden ribbon as consolation gift.

At the close of the games, it was suggested that all repair to the rose arbor in the gardens and led by Miss Gertrude Montgomery, the guests found a most attractive washing on a line stretched over a shining new clothes basket adorned with flaring pink bows.

With Miss Burns as prospective bride, were seated three very recent brides, Mrs. Blaine Gibson, Mrs. Jack Campbell and Mrs. Robert Gregg. Their table appointments from the gay umbrella in the center to the china and tea napkins, were all in "colouer de rose" while the wee umbrella favors and the different articles of the dainty menu emphasized the same color note. Other tables were in harmony with lavender, yellow and similar dainty rainbow colors used.

Pleasant recollections of previous events at the Harvey Gardner chome, 838 North Ross street, were recalled Saturday afternoon when Mrs. Gardner concluded her series of springtime bridge teas.

The same lovely motif of French bouquets and pastel tinted blossoms was employed for the final event as had marked earlier functions and even in gift awards Mrs. Gardner clung closely to the charming idea of Swiss pottery emphasizing the predominant tone of the afternoon's decorations.

The Cuno ministry abhors the idea of treating with the French, because that would be a certain sign of defeat. The German people are badly enraged against the French. Any German government that showed a tendency now to submit to French dictation would be overthrown.

Great Britain's Attitude
Therefore, Great Britain is content to give France a free hand in dealing with the Germans. The situation facing the British is not so one-sided as the Germans are attempting to make out. Great Britain can not afford to see France submerge Germany to second rank as a world power; but at the same time, Great Britain is equally opposed to permitting any such humiliation of France as would force the French to fall before a resuscitated Germany.

Market Shows Strength Under Persistent Hammering of Bears

a few selected stocks, today's marthe "bears" are in control of the illicit narcotic market in Seattle, Tacoma, Bellingham and other Puget sound cities. Wholesalers with large supplies on hand find that there is too much competition and "white stuff"—cocaine and morphine—is being offered at extremely low figures.

The Federal Reserve System Adds to the First National's

Strength and Usefulness

The Federal Reserve System is today the chief cornerstone in the banking business of America. The First National finds strength and usefulness because it is part of this system.

Money on deposit must always be ready for depositors when they desire it. In like manner, we must be ready to do our part towards loaning money, whenever needed, to our customers. Otherwise the business of the community is hampered.

The Federal Reserve System facilitates these movements in many ways. The Federal Reserve banks now hold over $3,-

Good Cash Demand and Fair Export Business Send Quotations Up

(By United Press Leased Wire)

(CHICAGO, April 23—Grain prices advanced slightly on the Chicago board of trade today as a result of light corn receipts, a good cash demand and fair export business.

Aside from the big wheat acreage abandonment in Kansas and Nebraska, the outlook for the year's production was more favorable. Export sales were about 400,000 bushels, mostly to Germany. Italy was reported bidding for a liberal amount of durum.

Corn found a good cash demand, prices for No. 2 yellow at Kansas City reaching 85½, a new high for the crop. Receipts were much lighter than anticipated. World shipments were about 500,000 bushels over the previous week.

Trade in oats was of moderate proportions. Cash in demand was slow and prices were largely influenced by actions in other grains.

Provisions were affected by the weak tone in livestock.

Map prepared by Gregg & Company, engineers of New York and Los Angeles, showing the wool production and the location of the woolen mills of the United States. Figures show approximately 70 per cent of the wool is grown in the Western States, while practically all of the mills are located east of the Mississippi river.

Santa Ana Needs This Big Industry

A GLANCE at the map is convincing proof to any one that Santa Ana is advantageously located for establishment of a Woolen Mill.. Raw material far in excess of a mill's requirements is produced at this city's very doors, and nearly three-fourths of the entire wool output of the United States is produced in nearby states. The map shows further that practically all of the woolen mills are located east of the Mississippi river in the territory which produces not more than 30 per cent of the wool.

There is no economic reason why the entire West should not be supplied with woolen goods manufactured in western mills. And western mills should have advantages over eastern mills in costs and freight charges which should be reflected by large figures in the annual dividend to be paid to stockholders. We have some very interesting data on file in our office which will be highly illuminating to the people of Santa Ana and Orange County who are looking for an investment which has every assurance of yielding gratifying returns.

Samuel L. Deane, president and general manager of the Santacala Woolen Mills, made a complete survey of the field before he left the Imperial Cotton Mills of Los Angeles to become identified with this great Santa Ana enterprise. He found labor conditions here ideal, shipping facilities ample and a market that is ready and waiting to absorb every dollar's worth of products our mill can turn out. In fact, Mr. Deane says, the California market alone is large enough to consume the output of several plants like the Santacala mills.

Mr. Deane is recognized as one of the ablest textile manufacturers in America. His thirty years' experience in New England and Southern Textile centers has equipped him with practical knowledge that should enable the Santacala mills to begin operations at the very outset on a profitable basis. He has the reputation of making textile mills pay dividends and his wonderful knowledge and experience is now fortunately available for the benefit of stockholders of the Santacala Woolen Mills.

Associated with Mr. Deane in this enterprise are some of the most substantial business and financial men of Santa Ana. You know all of them. You know they would not get behind any enterprise unless it was fundamentally sound in every detail. You know they are sure that textile manufacturing is a profitable business or they would not put their own money into it, or invite their friends and neighbors to invest in it, if they were not convinced it was a sound investment. This one fact alone should be sufficient evidence to the investing public of Orange County that here is an investment opportunity they cannot afford to overlook.

There is no "promotion" in the Santacala Woolen Mills. The officers and directors all have made substantial investments in the company and they have bought their stock the same as every stockholder must do. They have invested in this enterprise because they know textile manufacturing is one of the most profitable of the world's industries. They know Santa Ana needs payrolls and they are doing their part toward making this city one of the leading industrial centers of the Southwest. And they invite the investing public to take advantage of this money-making investment opportunity.

If you are interested, we will gladly send you full details. Better still—just run into our offices in the Smith building and meet Mr. Deane and let him tell you some things about the textile industry that will open your eyes.

The Reds were given a stiff jolt when Fonseca was hurt, forcing Pat oMran to put Bressler on first base. The Cincinnati club is holding up under the handicap, however, and the team will strengthened soon by the return of Jake Daubert.

The Phils have no business being tied for third place, and the Pirates are obviously out of place down next cellar and they surely will do some swapping with son of the nigher clubs soon. The Cubs are playing nice ball but Bill Killefer hardly has a sec ond place club, and he may find himself due for a little drop. The White Sox have been the disappointment of the American league and the Cleveland Indians have been a pleasant surprise. It seems that Tris Speaker's club was greatly underestimated as the ball they have been playing does not seem to be a spring flash.

Quality Remains After Price Is Forgotten

Quality furniture is the only kind that is a profitable investment. We hold no brief for high prices, but we do, most emphatically, declare for furniture that will justify the money that is put into it. And, since furniture is bought to be a lifetime possession, one should not be dazzled by mere surface gaudiness and a low price. "Cheap" furniture is rank extravagance. In choosing furniture be sure to look carefully for those inward qualities which are lasting. When you select home furnishings among Chandler's quality lines, you will have the assurance that "the quality remains long after the price has been forgotten."

It would seem unnecessary to urge that the $150,000 school bonds to be voted upon tomorrow December, and was carried. The voters by more portant now as they were then, and more important, respond eagerly. for the need of additional schoolrooms is more apparent now than it was then.

An error in the proceedings has made it necessary that the bonds be again submitted to a vote. The danger lies in the fact that a good many voters who San Bernardine's fortunate location is likely to danger lies in the fact that a good many voters who favor the bonds, including the voters who cast favorable votes for them last December, will look upon the matter as already settled, and will not go to the polls. Those who habitually oppose bond issues, including school bonds, do not look upon the matter as settled; they will go to the polls and cast their usual number of votes. Sane public sentiment will say in place of it. The chances are ten to one that you can and that you will.

Judge Gemmill says in part-"Fifteen years ago the Bridewell, our city prison, seldom had less than 1,800 prisoners and very often was crowded with 2.200. Now the number of inmates in that institution ranges from 650 to 1,200. In those days it took all the time of two judges sitting in the Harrison street his trip West in June, which will bring him to

"In the past three years in Chicago there has been a remarkable decrease in juvenile delinquency and dependency. In 1917 there were 3007 delinquency cases and 2073 dependency cases. A tabulation of figures and about 40 "In the past three years in Chicago there has been per cent in dependency cases here.

"The effect of prohibition is even more pronounced in our poor house. In 1920, the superintendent of that institution requested the judges of the Municipal court to commit to that institution persons charged with slight offenses because prohibition had wrought suspicious deaths since the enactment of the prohibition law. Our county hospital is the largest in the world. Its records show that in 1917 the ratio of deaths in proportion to the population was 13 per cent; in 1918—about 16 per cent; 1919—121/2 per cent: 1922—83/4 per cent. At no time previous in the history of Chicago has there been so low a death I have before me the record of total deaths in twenty-six of the largest cities in the United States, and with one exception, the number in 1922 was very much less than in 1917.

There can be no doubt whatever that the recors of the city of Chicago discloses the fact that life is more secure and men and women are living more soberly now than ever before and that this great good has come about because of the prohibition law."

SHOULD BUY MONTICELLO

At last the long-contemplated movement has been organized to raise a fund of $1,000,000 to make Monticello, the home of Thomas Jefferson at Charlottesville, Va., a national property. On April 13, the 180th anniversary of Jefferson's birth, exercises at Monticello and the incorporation at Albany, N. Y., of the Thomas Jefferson Memorial Foundation, marked the beginning of the undertaking.

Jefferson, it will be remembered, aside from his many other claims to honor among America's patriots and Presidents, did the actual drafting of the Declaration of Independence. It is held that the preservation of lovely Monticello will be a fitting memorial to the great man and his greatest deed. It is in keeping with the custom which grows in favor of making national shrines of the homes of famous Americans.

Aside from its historic association, Monticello is one of the most beautiful homes in America both for setting and architecture. Jefferson himself drew the be carried. This same proposal was voted upon last plans for the house and supervised its construction. A writer in the Country Gentleman highly recommends east windows in poultry houses. He says the with sight offenses because prohibition had wrought great havoc with their population. It had decreased to such an extent that they did not have a sufficient number of able-bodied men and women to perform the necessary work about the place.

"The coroner's office shows a decided decrease in the number of shows a decided decrease in the sun does not get around into its south windows till the middle of the forencon. But east windows give the hen "the first faint light of day to come downstairs for an early breakfast," and they have, consequently, greatly increased the number of eggs. THE WATCHER

She always leaned to watch for us Anxious if we were late, In Winter by the window, In Summer by the gate.

And though we mocked her tenderly Who took such foolish care, The long road home would seemed more safe Because she waited there.

Her thoughts were all so full of us, She never could forget, And so I think that where she is She must be watching yet.

TAKING NO CHANCES

The young lady was a hick and knew it. She, when she found herself thrown into a herd of highbrows at an evening party, she was distinctly up against it. She did a grand job of keeping still and listening to the talk of old English poets, modern English poets, Danish dramatists and French farceurs.

Finally, fearing she might be drawn into an impasse where she should have to talk or confess, she took to one side a really kindly looking young man and said:

"This is largely due to a climate which gives greater opportunity for out-of-door life," the author goes on to say and qualifies this by remarking that while it was once thought that the stature of certain races was due to climate it is now generally believed that these racial differences are chiefly the result of differences in food.
